

A detailed topographic map of a coastal region, likely in Japan, showing contour lines, roads, and various geographical features. The map is overlaid with several colored regions: a large blue hatched area in the upper left and center, a pink hatched area in the upper right, and an orange hatched area in the lower right. The map also shows a river or stream flowing through the center, and a coastline with a bay or inlet on the right side. The map is densely packed with contour lines and road networks, indicating a complex terrain. The overall layout suggests a planning or engineering project, possibly related to infrastructure or land use.
